Appetite testers everywhere. He bakery wise. You know full well that some bakers carry a bigger line of bread, cakes, pies, cooking, doughnuts and bakery goods than others and it is common sense the one that has the trade carries the goods. We have both. Our shelves are always well stocked with first class goods. We employ only expert bakers and our delivery service is matchless.

LIFE A GAMBLE SAYS DENVER POLICY KING

OLD-TIME DEALER PHILOSOPHIZES ON UPS AND DOWNS OF EXISTENCE.

Ed Chase of Denver, Colo., is a guest of the Hotel Utah, on his way to the Pacific coast. There are some people, probably, who do not know Mr. Chase. For the benefit of the few who do not know him, it might be stated that Mr. Chase is probably the most famous of the old-time gamblers now alive.

Mr. Chase was born in Rochester, N. Y., and went to Denver in the '50s, when the town was only a village. From the time of his arrival there until a ban was finally placed on gambling he was the proprietor of a gambling house. He also operated gambling houses in adjoining states and had some exciting experiences in the Black Hills and other places in the early days.

Mr. Chase does not care to talk of his holdings in Colorado, but it is understood that he is worth several millions. He is a large holder of street railway bonds and real estate in the Colorado capital and also owns extensive interests in coal lands in the state. It is said that he could close out his interests in anthracite coal lands near Boulder at more than a million dollars any day that he desires to release possession. To a reporter Mr. Chase said: "Everything in life is a gamble. So far as gambling is concerned, it is largely a diversion. I believe that gambling is all right for men who can afford it, but men who work for small wages should keep away from gaming tables. When I was in the business I always discouraged men of limited means from gambling. If a man is worth a million dollars and he wants to gamble, it is his own business and he doesn't hurt anybody; but a man working for a small salary, with a family to support, should keep his money in his pocket. In far bank and roulette, when the games are played on the square, there is only a slight percentage in favor of the house, but the player has to do the guessing and there is where he loses. There is no game of chance in the world as fair as far bank to the man who plays. "One thing that is largely responsible for gambling's being tabooed nearly everywhere is the fact that dishonest men wanted to make too much money, and accordingly ran crooked games. There was no excuse for this. The percentage in favor of the house in a gambling game is enough and the men who ran the games should have been satisfied with it."

Mr. Chase is 76 years of age, but he carries his years lightly. He has the reputation of never having turned down a friend and is said to be generous to a marked degree. Go to the Cobweb saloon for the complete reports of the baseball championship series.—Adv.

HEARS OF DEATH AND A FORTUNE ON LAST DAY

MRS. AMELIA STEVENS READS OF SEARCH FOR HER IN CHICAGO PAPERS.

OAKLAND, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Amelia Duvall Stevens, heiress to the vast fortune of the late Alexander Duvall and to the Chauteau Bellevue near Livermore, has been located in Chicago after an absence of ten years, according to advices received today by Attorney A. P. Leach, representing the public administrator.

Mrs. Stevens read in the Chicago papers that her father had died and that the authorities were searching for her as the only heir to the fortune. She immediately consulted a lawyer and announced her intention of leaving for California at once to claim the estate.

"We received a telegram from a Chicago attorney stating that his client, Mrs. Stevens, would start for California to claim her father's fortune," said Attorney Leach today. "I wired back asking for further particulars and stating that Mrs. Stevens was sole heir."

Twenty years ago she was condemned by her father because she ran away and married Thaddeus Stevens, then a nurse in a Livermore sanitarium. About twelve years ago she divorced her husband and then returned to the parental roof, where she remained for less than two years. Her father only partially forgave her and forced her to occupy the position of a servant about the house. Tiring of his attitude of unkindness toward her, she again packed up and left for parts unknown.

Alexander Duvall died last April. His wife preceded him by ten months. The aged vineyardist left no will and the estate, consisting of 180 acres of vineyard land, valuable wineries and the family home, together with nearly $100,000 in stocks and bonds, passed under the control of the public administrator. The sale last Saturday was held to dispose of the personal property about the ranch. Members of the French colony who attended were grieved to see the belongings of the late mistress of the Chauteau strewn about by other hands. They wished for the return of the daughter.

Mrs. Rosalie Ceelen Cop of San Francisco, a niece of the late Mrs. Duvall, was the nearest of kin present. Alexander Duvall had no relatives other than his daughter and he had disowned her.

The appearance of the rightful heir to the property will not affect the sale of Saturday, but it means that Mrs. Stevens and not the state will receive the big estate, comprised of 300 acres of vineyard and orchard, together with a large country home.
